

Abstract :

The maintenance planning scheduling functions represent two major issues in the industry, the scheduling problem is to find an implementation plan adapted to tasks, performing at best one or more objectives generally associated with ending time of tasks, many studies are dedicated to solving these problems.

The purpose of this memory is the maintenance project management by building a planning, applying scheduling techniques to improve the functioning of a system.

Keywords : scheduling, project, planning, maintenance, PERT.